Dear Market Participants and Interested Parties:

Re: Progress Update on Quick Hits Implementation.

We would like to take this opportunity to update you on the progress we have made with respect to the implementation of the market rule changes commonly known as the “Quick Hits.”

On August 29th, the upgrades to the system operating framework for the Energy Trading System were successfully put into service. This enhancement was required prior to implementing the functional changes for Quick Hits.

We are continuing to enhance the system operating framework for the Dispatch Tool (DT) to provide better stability, availability and reliability. Work on Quick Hits is continuing in parallel with DT framework upgrades.

Based on the progress with these upgrades and with the Quick Hits systems development the AESO is pleased to announce that the Quick Hit rules will be implemented December 1, 2007. Further announcements regarding participant training will follow.

We thank you for your patience in this matter and encourage you to contact us any time should you have any comments or suggestions.
