

November 15, 2016

To: Market Participants and Other Interested Parties

Re: Final Comments from Stakeholders Regarding Phase 1 of the Review of Mothball Outages and Related Issues

On September 23, 2016, the AESO held a working session with stakeholders to discuss whether mothball outages should be a permanent feature of the Alberta electricity market ("phase 1"). The invitation letter and presentation from the September 23, 2016 working session are available on the AESO website.

Upon completion of the working session, the AESO posted a letter on its website inviting stakeholders to provide final written comments on phase 1 and indicating that the final written comments would be posted on the AESO website. The following grid is hyperlinked to those written comments:

Mothball Outages and Related Issues
ATCO Power
Capital Power Corporation
TransCanada Corporation

Thank you to all stakeholders who provided comment. The AESO will review written comments received, in conjunction with the market design principles established at the outset of this stakeholder engagement and the input provided at the July 25 and September 23, 2016 working sessions, to determine the outcome of phase 1. The AESO will notify stakeholders regarding further engagement at a future time.

Sincerely,

William Chow
Market Design Analyst, Tariff and Market Design
Phone: 403-539-2785
Email: william.chow@aeso.ca